Understanding the next chapter in the fast-changing Chinese wind sector.

After a decade of global pace-setting growth, China’s wind power industry finds itself at a crossroads. Beijing’s recently announced policy-shift to award future projects approval via an auction mechanism as soon as 2019 - rather than the feed-in-tariffs that have supported the build-out of some 190GW to date - is set to radically reshape the domestic market structure in the years to come - and, at the same time, fundamentally influence the ongoing internationalisation ambitions of many of China’s largest developers and OEMs.

Join European and Chinese RECHARGE Thought Leaders for a high-level discussion of how wind power market will evolve in this rapidly changing market landscape.

Date | 18 October
Time | 9am to 1pm including breakfast, tea break and lunch networking session
Location | Crowne Plaza Beijing Lido
